I am in agreement with the proposal for the property at 2814 Georgia Avenue being zoned R6. I think many of the lots in our community are zoned R6. The traffic and parking will be much less with this proposal than R20 that many investors are requesting in our community.

Our proposed zoning will allow up to 2 dwellings on the subject property while the current zoning only allows 1 dwelling. The R6A zoning will still require any new construction to build to the average setback along the street and limit building height to 3 stories in 45' (though Fire Marshall will limit the height further due to overhead lines along Georgia). The biggest difference comes with parking location - we cannot park in front of the homes. We'll have to bring that in off the alley. And we'll have to build sidewalks in front of the houses with any new construction.

I'll be reaching out to surrounding neighbor's soon - I'd appreciate any advice you might have regarding my communication with them. If you feel like the community (or members of the community) would be served well if I were to meet with them at the Church let me know and I'll be there.
