Executive Summary

Nashville Mayor Karl Dean made creation of local jobs a high priority for the Music City Center campus, and the project and construction management teams are committed to fulfilling his goal. The purpose of the Music City Center Workforce Development Program is to assist individuals who have construction related job skills. The program promotes professional development, connects people with job training, and gives direct access with contractors.

The MCC Workforce Development Program opened its doors on July 6, 2010. The first year the program was facilitated by a Nashville-based insurance brokerage firm Alexander and Associates, Inc. Jefferson Street United Merchants Partnership, Inc. (JUMP), led by Sharon Hurt, coordinated community based organization efforts. In June 2011, Convention Center Authority brought the program in house and continued its contracted relationship with JUMP. Convention Center Authority Chair Marty Dickens announced in August 2011 the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development, in conjunction with the Nashville Career Advancement Center, awarded monetary and in-kind grants to the Music City Center to fund the Workforce Development Program's second year.

These collaborative efforts have placed over 375 applicants hired on the MCC and Omni Hotel construction sites. To date, Music City Center is partnered with twenty-six community based organizations and over 1,800 people have been referred for job training.

MCC Program Summary

The mission of the Music City Center Workforce Development Program is to assist individuals who have construction related job skills. The program promotes professional development, connects people with job training, and gives direct access with contractors. The vision of the Music City Center Workforce Development Program is to provide individuals with an opportunity to gain skills and experience in a variety of construction trades and the opportunity to acquire financial stability and economic growth that will improve quality of life.

Applicants may apply online at the Music City Center website or in person at either the onsite trailer or JUMP office. Each applicant must go through a five step process in our program. First, applicants will be screened for qualifications, pre-interviewed by program facilitators and at our partner organizations, and participate in job readiness training. Qualified job candidates will be matched and referred for open positions on site. Top candidates are reference checked for past employment verification or certification, OSHA certification, and previous commercial construction experience. Job interviews can take place at the onsite location. Finally, once a candidate is directly hired by the contractor, the MCC applicant's employment activities are tracked through certified payroll records. There is no specific time limit on how long this process may take for each applicant because employment depends on the match of the applicant's qualifications and availability with open positions.

Omni Hotel & Country Music Hall of Fame Program Summary

In August 2010, Mayor Karl Dean and officials from Omni Hotels & Resorts announced plans to build and operate a headquarters hotel for the Music City Center, scheduled to open in 2013, within months of the new convention center. The hotel will create 300 new, full-time jobs when open, 200 of which are guaranteed to be filled by Davidson County residents. The MCC Workforce Program plays a key role in recruiting construction workers to fill these positions by serving as the primary referral service for the site. Contractors can remain compliant with federal employment qualifications with access to our onsite Tennessee Department of Labor representative, Sharyn Pelych. This relationship has resulted in the following:

1. Forty-one applicants are hired at the general contractor, Brasfield & Gorrie;
2. All open positions are posted at Tennessee Career Center website;
3. Program staff members participate in contractor meetings and community outreach affairs;
4. Superintendents have full access to on-site trailer to conduct interviews.

Construction Safety Class.

Picture taken October 20, 2011

The Workforce Development team works closely with community-based organizations (CBOs) and education and training providers serving the Middle Tennessee area. Job readiness and adequate training are key to sustained employment, so the Music City Center Workforce Development Program has partnered with 26 Nashville-area community based organizations, led by the Jefferson Street United Merchants Partnership (JUMP) for training assistance. Applicants for jobs at the Music City Center who may require additional training are referred to the organizations listed on the next pages, based on the type of training the applicant requires. The function of a CBO is to coordinate with Music City Center applicants any additional related training that would enhance the applicant's ability to become more proficient in his or her job and improve quality of life style. Examples of job training sessions include:

OSHA Safety Certification *Interview Skills Training *G.E.D. Testing
Résumé Preparation *Basic Construction Skills

We understand the importance of connecting with other Nashville community based organizations in an effort to develop an applicant's skill so he or she may become more competitive in today's job market. The realization that different CBOs offer a variety of hard and soft skills training helps frame the MCC Workforce Program as a more unified network of partnerships under one program. The program uses memorandums of understanding (MOU) to register community organizations as official partners of the program. These CBOs now have access to a complete database of individuals who could benefit from their existing services. The MCC Workforce Program, in return, benefits from a more skilled database of people to refer for employment at Music City Center. To date, Music City Center is partnered with twenty-six community based organizations and over 1,800 people have been referred for job training.

Debbie Frank is the Project Manager of Art, Development, and Labor Administration at Music City Center. Since March 2010, she manages multiple projects at MCC: Public Art program, SoBro Strategic Master Plan, Bike Center, and Workforce Development. Debbie is also the CEO of Urban Blueprint, a real estate development and consulting company headquartered in Nashville, Tennessee.

"The most rewarding aspect of the program comes from knowing that the program positions individuals in the Davidson County and Middle Tennessee region for employment opportunities beyond construction activities associated with Music City Center campus. I truly believe the program has been life-changing for our participants."

Sharon Hurt is a founding member of the Workforce Development Program. She is the Executive Director of Jefferson Street United Merchants Partnership, Inc. Since June 2010, she has served as the program's Community Based Organization Coordinator. Sharon was born and raised in Memphis but has known "life on Jefferson" since coming to Nashville for college at TSU. She has more than 20 years' experience in business and grant administration.

Sharon's favorite thing about working for MCC Workforce Program is "restoring local residents hope in the available opportunities in Nashville, as well as supporting non-profit organizations."

Autumn Henderson joined MCC Workforce Development Program in July 2010. She currently serves as the program's supervisor of operations. Prior to Music City Center, she worked as a HR consultant for a temporary staffing service. She is a graduate of Fisk University and Master's degree candidate in HR Management at Lipscomb University.

Autumn's favorite thing about working for MCC Workforce is "watching how the growth of a building can inspire the growth of a community."

K'Nesha Ewing joined MCC Workforce Program in February 2011. She is employed by JUMP as a program assistant for MCC Workforce Program. Prior to working for the program, K'Nesha worked customer service in the retail industry. As a program assistant, she sharpened her customer service skills and learned new talents in human resources recruitment. In her spare time she enjoys spending time with her family and friends.

K'Nesha's favorite thing about working for the MCC Workforce Program is "networking with CBOs and locating resources the applicants need in order to help them advance to a new life."

Sharyn Pelych is an Interviewer at the Williamson County Career Center of the Tennessee Department of Labor since 2010. She currently works on special assignment as a program assistant for MCC Workforce Program. Sharyn is an experienced business professional and coordinates the on-site trailer. She also has won dozens of competitions as an amateur golfer.

Sharyn's favorite thing about working for MCC Workforce Program is "assisting applicants who are seeking employment using the talent and creativity of the workforce development team."

Tamika White joined MCC Workforce Development Program in November 2010. She is employed by JUMP and currently serves as a program assistant. Her duties as a former YMCA Middle Tennessee assistant transferred well as an assistant with MCC. She learned new skills in data entry, filing, customer service, and computer software. In her spare time she enjoys spending time with her husband and eight year old son.

Tamika's favorite thing about working for MCC Workforce Development is "enjoying the customer service satisfaction of assisting applicants in their job search."

The Primary Objective of the Music City Center Workforce Development Program is to assist individuals who have construction related job skills. The onsite representative, or Program supervisor, markets the program's services to contractors by first introducing its goals, objectives, and requirements in pre-construction meetings. Consistent communication and altering contact methods of weekly calls, emails, literature, and site visits are methods to generate a work order from a contractor. The objective of each contact with a contractor is to establish a relationship by understanding the company's qualifications and preferences when hiring new employees. Secondary goals are to determine each company's labor needs, identify decision making hiring managers, and define requirements for each position.

We understand the importance of connecting with other Nashville community based organizations in an effort to develop an applicant's skill so he or she may become more competitive in today's job market. The realization that different CBOs offer a variety of hard and soft skills training helps frame the MCC Workforce Program as a more unified network of partnerships under one program. The program uses memorandums of understanding (MOU) to register community organizations as official partners of the program. These CBOs now have access to a complete database of individuals who could benefit from their existing services. The MCC Workforce Program, in return, benefits from a more skilled database of people to refer for employment at Music City Center. To date, Music City Center is partnered with twenty-six community based organizations and over 1,800 people have been referred for job training.

The Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development is providing a one-year $100,000 grant to directly fund the program in addition to supplying as many as two staff members to the workforce team. The greatest achievement of this partnership is the program could now expand its outreach past Davidson County and into the entire state of Tennessee.

Partnerships and collaborations among the public, private, and non-profit sectors are essential to successfully establish, build and sustain workforce and economic systems. The program centers on non-profit organizations and local educational institutions with workforce related services and curriculums in an effort to utilize a single source of contact to provide recruitment, employability life skills, and construction related job employment. These efforts have placed over 375 applicants hired to MCC and Omni Hotel construction sites.

The Music City Center (MCC) Workforce Program placed forty-seven Middle Tennessee residents for work its last reported quarter. The workforce program steadily recruits and places 30% of the MCC project labor force. The latest quarter reports twelve contractors requested work orders and the leading hiring contractor is Brasfield & Gorrie at Omni Hotel site for concrete formers and general laborers. Over 30% of all applicants hired this quarter received job skills training from a community partner.

Job training remains a key to sustainable employment, and the MCC Workforce Program is committed to referring applicants for hard and soft skills training. The majority of job training referrals take place at the JUMP location where the program assistants contacted over 200 people for job training in winter 2012. Sharon Hurt successfully coordinates twenty six Middle Tennessee community partnerships with MCC Workforce Development. Our newest partner, Renewal House, provides life skills and job transition training to Middle Tennessee women recovering from substance abuse. In addition, JUMP opened its doors to host weekly soft skills training with the Martha O'Bryan Center. An added benefit is the MCC Workforce program now operates from in-house software, Avionté and the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development (TNDOL) eCMATS software.

The MCC Workforce Program encourages contractors to hire program participants during the construction phase. The Workforce Development program creates another resource to help support local job creation through the Music City Center project. This program's success of placing over 370 applicants to the MCC site demonstrates the program's significant contribution in assisting contractors with an available skilled labor force. The project recently celebrated the completion of structural steel erection. Now the Music City Center is increasing efforts in interior finishing trades. Acoustic ceiling carpenters, drywall framers or finishers, and painters (see picture on left), are among the most in demand tradesmen or tradeswomen on the site during Spring 2012. Acousti Engineering Co., Associated Imports, and Roswell Drywall hired twenty-nine program applicants. Spectra Contract Flooring certified eleven of their employees through our program. These contractors are assigned interior finishing scopes. General laborers are in high demand on the MCC site for several reasons. First, most of the prime contractors are working on the project through the end of Summer 2012, making this the busiest season- and the messiest! Bell/Clark, MCC's general contractor, is enforcing a daily composite cleanup crew, a contractual one laborer for every ten workers on the site. The MCC Workforce Program markets local laborers to contractors to encourage them to hire and keep the project clean and safe. Any applicant with a minimum of one year experience on a commercial construction site, or has a minimum of ten hours OSHA certification, shall qualify for a general laborer position. Currently, over 3,000 applicants qualify as a general laborer for Music City Center. Qualified laborers that consistently call in available once a week and all U.S. veterans are among the primary applicants referred for general laborer positions. For-profit staffing agencies are encouraged to bid on labor contracts directly with MCC contractors. It's our policy that the MCC Workforce Program provides very limited assistance to all for-profit companies to ensure fair competition on a public project.

Derrick Bentley , owner of ULC Steel Erectors, shakes hands with a MCC applicant after an interview for an open general laborer's position.

K'Nesha and Tamika recruit potential candidates at the Urban League of Middle Tennessee Job Fair. So far, Urban League has placed 15% of our CBO trained applicants at MCC.

Veterans Assistance

We are following the State of Tennessee example by giving Veterans a priority of service in the Workforce Development Program. Employment and training services are provided to veterans of the United States Armed Forces through a nationwide network of approximately 3,000 One-Stop Career Centers. Middle Tennessee resident veterans may access one of 25 One-Stop Career Centers in the local area.

The U.S. Department of Labor has implemented Priority of Service for veterans and eligible spouses in all qualified job training programs. Operation Stand Down Nashville, Inc (OSDN) is the primary non-profit resource for veterans in Middle Tennessee providing employment readiness training and placement assistance. They are a community partner with the Workforce Development Program since November 2010.

Currently, the program assisted in hiring nineteen veterans to the Music City Center site. The program staff is committed to informing hiring contractors of the Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC) employers can receive for hiring U.S. veterans.

Applicant Profile

Edward "Ed" Henley always dreamed of a career as a successful business owner. His philosophy on how to achieve his dreams is to get the right education in finance and to surround himself with key leaders in the project management field. Ed majored in Business Finance at University of Tennessee in Knoxville. He was an active member in the National Association of Black Accountants and college investment club challenges. Ed gained valuable experience in procurement and compliance reporting as an intern at Oak Ridge National Laboratory. This twenty two year old graduate was on his way to a promising future in project management.

In November 2011, Ed received a phone call from MCC Workforce Development about an open Associate Project Manager position at the project development office. "When I got the call, my first thought was 'that was fast!' I just posted my resumé twenty minutes ago." Ed nailed his interview and was soon thrown into the tasks of assisting with public art, budget reporting, and diversity business vendor contracting. When asked to comment on his role at MCC he says, "this job allows me to step out of my shell and network with professionals in the construction management field. I have a broader view of how current operations of large public projects function." Ed's next goal is to return to school for his MBA in hopes that education and his work experience at MCC will help him fulfill his life long dream of starting his own business.

Ed reviews expense reports in his new position as Associate Project Manager: Construction & Finance.

Applicant Profile

Joel Mallard is a Nashville native, father, and decorated veteran with a military career spanning over 15 years. During his service in the Marine Corps from 1988- 2006 he took some courses for welding and bridge building. Eager to spend more time with his daughter Joel retired ranked E-9 Master Gunnery Sergeant and relocated to Nashville to find work and start a new life. His job search techniques included online and paper applications; and applying at local Tennessee Career Centers. Sadly, the civilian life was not as easy a transition as he once believed. He found himself often turned down for job offers. He claims, "It was hard to find work because I was told I was overqualified. There were either no open positions that matched my skills, or I was overqualified for the skills required for open positions. It was frustrating."

Joel is just finishing a hard day at work at the Music City Center. He encourages other veterans by declaring, "Never give up hope. Keep digging and keep plugging. One day your life will change."

To make ends meet he continued to work day labor jobs so to provide for his daughter, but Joel could no longer live trying to squeeze a dollar out of a dime. Joel and his daughter were homeless- living in shelters and eating at local soup kitchens. A ray of hope came when he scored an interview at the Music City Center for an open welder's position. Joel's skills and persuasive personality landed him the job and he reported to work September 26, 2011. Now Joel plans to work hard to get him and his daughter into a permanent home and provide a stable environment for his daughter.

Applicant Profile

After a layoff from the Southern Mattress Factory in the summer of 2011, Jerel Williams, like so many other Middle Tennesseans, began a fervent search for a new job. He applied with the Music City Center Workforce Development Program, at the Jefferson Street United Merchants Partnership (JUMP) location, in hopes of finding a new career in construction. Jerel took advantage of the OSHA 10 Hour training class held at the Bell Clark trailer on December 1 and 2, 2011.

It was just a few short weeks later that this class would greatly benefit Jerel by landing him an interview with a subcontractor on the MCC site. Rick Haydon of Peterson Beckner Industries, a steel erector, saw potential in Jerel and gave him a job as a general laborer. The hard work and determination he displayed was rewarded in January with news of a promotion. He is currently training to be a foreman of a 12 person crew on site and looks forward to the challenges he will face in his new role. When asked if he had any advice for those who are still searching for work, Jerel says, "Do NOT give up! Something will happen, but just don't give up!" He says he has learned a lot about safety, especially the safety of others. His experience at the Music City Center has given him a new found passion for construction and he wants to continue working in this industry with hopes of owning his own construction company one day.
